Provision of Indicative Unofficial Valuation for Mori Umbrella Fund Plc – Sub-Fund Mori Eastern European Fund (the "Fund")

On 1 March 2022 in accordance with the Articles of Incorporation and Prospectus of the Fund, the Board of Directors of Mori Umbrella Fund Plc. took the decision to suspend the determination of the Net Asset Value of the Fund and daily dealing in respect of all Share Classes for the Fund with effect from 28 February 2022. This decision was made to protect the interests of investors in the Fund given its exposure to Russian securities. Furthermore, the Board of the Fund decided to value all Russian securities held at "zero" until these positions became tradable again.

Several of the Fund's Russian holdings have also been distributing dividends which have been accrued on so-called DUCA accounts. However, given the sanctions the Fund currently cannot access the accumulated dividends. Hence, given the exceptional circumstances currently impacting the Fund, the Board considers it to be in the best interest of the investors for the suspension to remain in place until further notice.

As a result of President Trump's tariff announcements, the US dollar continued to lose ground against the euro and many other major currencies during the second quarter of 2025. Whilst the global economic activity remained sluggish, the oil price spiked in June in light of the Israel/Iran conflict, which lasted for almost two weeks. Hungarian and Greek equity indices outperformed during the second quarter with each adding around 10% in euro terms. Polish and Czech indices also managed to close in the positive territory, gaining 4.3% and 2.6% respectively. Turkish equities continued to underperform regional peers with a 8.2% loss in the second quarter, due to geopolitical concerns in the region. At the same time, the Central Bank of Turkey cautiously kept the policy interest rate constant. However, as the last couple of months' inflation print came in lower than expectations, the CBT may gradually start easing as of July.

Whilst the Fund remains suspended, the Board, however, wishes to inform the investors about the valuation of the Fund's assets excluding the Russian portion (i.e. Russian securities valued at "zero") post suspension. Therefore, an indicative and unofficial valuation is calculated and presented in the table below for each of the Share Classes. Please note that this indicative valuation is provided on a best efforts basis, for information only and does not reflect an official or published value of the Fund's Share Classes.
